What A Way To Go

The federal government's first venture into highway beautification has provided a priceless study in Great Society dialogue. Center of discussion is the North Georgia junkyard of Willie Hicks. Mr. Hicks was about to move his 300 tired automobiles back from the road a bit, and screen them from the eyes of passing motorists with a vine covered fence. He found out just in the nick of time that his state and federal government had intended to do the job all along — they just hadn't bothered to tell him anything about it.

Commented Mr. Hicks: "I think that's right nice of them. I think the federal program is good, and I think everybody ought to cooperate." And from a Georgia State Highway Engineer: "We don't have to notify anybody. We've got a federal law that tells us what we have to do. All we have to do is do it."

Mr. Hicks' willingness to relax and let Washington prove there really is a Santa Clause is understandable, if potentially expensive. But the Georgia State Highway Department's approach to the matter is a bit harder to swallow. We would suggest to our friend the highway engineer, for example, that he is a public servant, that this country harbors a quaint but thoroughgoing fondness for the rights of private ownership, and that there is too somebody he has to notify when he sets out to lay hands on the affairs of a private citizen.

We would also suggest, that there may be practical considerations involved. After all, Mr. Hicks' was at least initially willing to spend some of his own money to comply with the law. There may even be a person or two left around who would rather see the beautification done to his own taste than sit back and watch the government disprove all those old sayings about something for nothing.

Roadside beautification must be welcome in a country where highway travel is coming to require some considerable intestinal fortitude. But it appears that this program is to become just another one of many administered under the fatuous federal assumption that the dollar is an adequate substitute for due care and judgment. We would be happy to see some untried scenery along the highways, but we would be happier still with some indication that Washington doesn't think it can kill all this nation's problems by smothering them in tax money. — Charlotte (N. C.) News

Pedestrian Killed by Auto Here

Turle Nelson, 70-year-old Hope Negro woman, died last night from injuries suffered about 6:30 when she was hit by an auto driven by Mrs. Linda Sue Coats of Hope.

The accident occurred in the 800 block on South Walnut. According to City Police the woman walked in front of the Coats auto and was struck down. She was taken to a local hospital for treatment and died about 9 a.m. City Officers Ward, Sinyard and Richard Rowe called the accident "unavoidable." However, Mrs. Coats was charged with failure to have a drivers license.

Mrs. Coats is the wife of KXAR announcer Paul Coats.

Commission Head Is Named

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Thursday that Ellis Doyle Herron will become director of a federally financed Arts and Humanities program under the state planning commission.

Herron, director of the Little Rock Museum of Science and Natural History for 10 years, will join the agency Saturday. Faubus said Herron would draw up a plan and handle the program as outlined in the federal Arts and Humanities Act.

New York Is Braced for a Transit Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's largest city braced for a crippling subway and bus strike on this first day of 1966 after bitter contract negotiations broke down when the new year was but five minutes old.

"The strike is on," said pep-perry Michael J. Quill, president of the Transport Worker's Union as he stormed out of a meeting with city negotiators and newly installed Mayor John V. Lindsay at 12:05 a.m.

Lindsay, who took over as chief executive of this city of eight million at midnight, prepared to spend a sleepless first full day in his new office "running the city, which is a struck city."

He said he would be available at City Hall "around the clock" until the dispute is settled.

Quill ordered the strike for 5 a.m. despite a State Supreme Court injunction obtained by the city four hours before talks collapsed.

The union leader, who repeatedly had said he would not obey such an injunction, tore up what he said might have been a copy of the court order.

"I don't know what they'll do to me and I don't give a damn," he shouted in his Irish brogue as he ascended to his top floor room in the 50-story Hotel Americana, site of the talks.

Public agencies and private firms planned for the workday movement of 15 million people in the congested metropolitan area without public transportation.

The 236-mile subway system carries an average of nearly three million people daily, and its 600 separate trains serve about 9,500 persons every minute of the two rush hours.

More than a million others depend daily on the 533 miles of bus transportation. Very few New Yorkers live close enough to work to walk.

The transit talks collapsed after 12 hours of intermittent negotiations between Lindsay, Quill and union negotiators.

Transit Authority Chairman Joseph O'Grady and his negotiators, and a three-man mediation panel.

He Takes Religion to People

By GODFREY ANDERSON

LONDON (AP) — The Rev. John Knight, vicar of St. John with St. Simon on Bethnal Green, has one of the toughest parishes in London. Because people won't come to his church, he goes out to find them — in the pubs.

And with the money he earns there by singing popular ballads, he buys paint to dress up his church and make it a more attractive place for people to come.

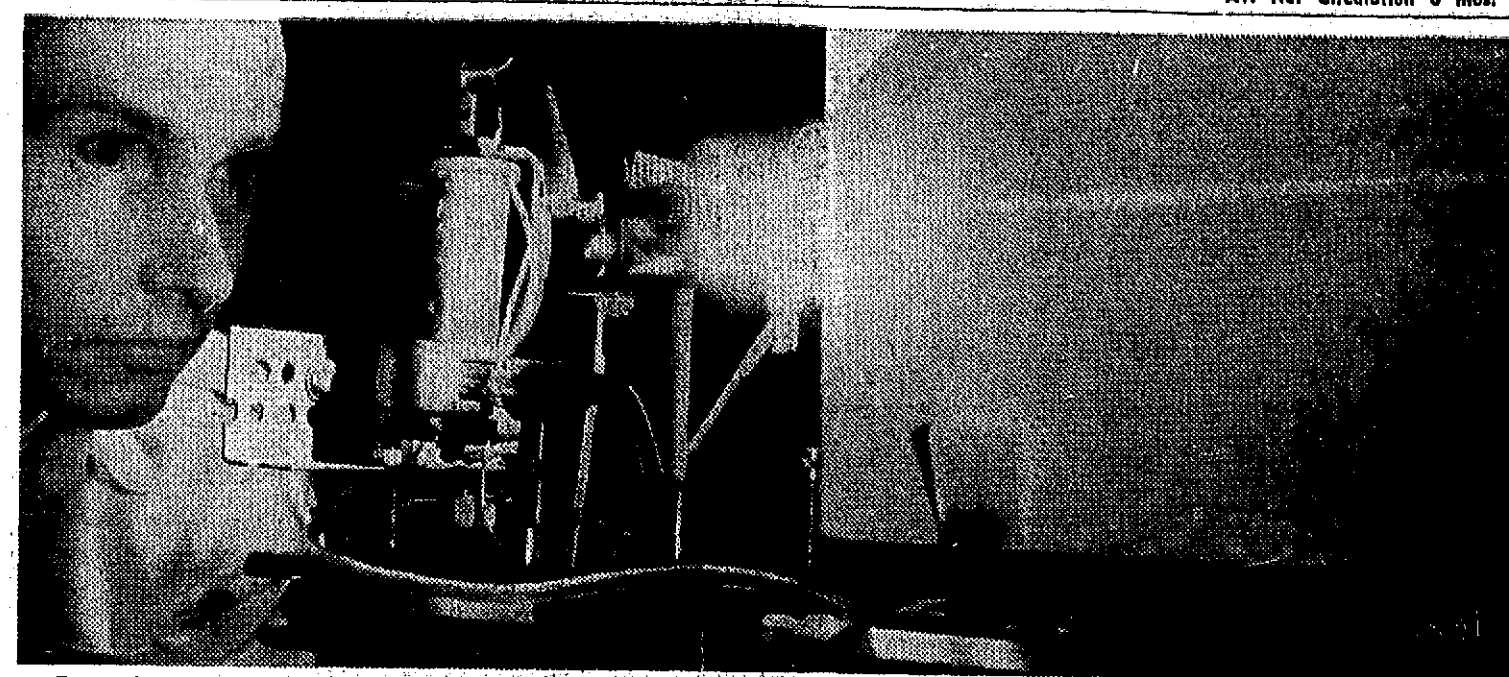

Father Knight started out by running amateur theatricals. He organized a company, composed largely of Anglican clergy, which has performed for prisoners in grim old Wormwood Scrubs Jail. Then, although he never had voice training he took up singing in the local saloons, which were always more crowded than his church.

Against the background noise of a cracked piano, the clinking of glasses and sometimes a rousing chorus, he belts out old refrains. His cherubic figure, in rusty black cassock, is welcome almost everywhere. And plenty of coins go jingling in the church collection box.

"Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays are my best nights," he says. "Usually I can take twice, sometimes three times, what I get in church on Sunday. The Bishop of Sphney asked me if I was doing it only for the money. I told him it was a way of meeting the people too — people I never see in church."

I spent a Friday evening with Father Knight. He sang four songs in the crowded Royal Standard Public House and came out with nearly $40 in his jingling collection boxes.

Father Knight says he'd like to continue on Page Four

In early experimentation with laser at the Army Signal Corps laboratory at Fort Monmouth, N.J., a powerful, ruby-red laser beam is fired and can be seen, right, skimming past cardboard reflector.

What is a "laser"? Essentially it is a pencil-thin beam of intense light that remains almost completely intact over long distances and does not become diffused as does, say, the sun's light or a flashlight beam. The word is made up of the initials of its proper name, "Light Amplification by Stimulated Emission of Radiation." The laser beam was first achieved in 1960 by scientists at the Hughes Research Laboratories at Malibu, Calif. This light has the potential of producing the greatest revolution in communications since invention of the telegraph. It can carry messages, much like a radio wave does, and theoretically it has 10,000 times the capacity of the best radio link. One laser beam could carry more communications channels than all the nation's long-distance telephone lines combined. A laser is produced by hitting a special two-inch-long, silver-ended ruby cylinder with an intense surge of ordinary light. This "excites" the ruby's atoms, so that they emit small quantities of light. These light pulses are converted into the "orderly" laser beam by multiple reflections from the ruby cylinder's silvered ends.

Syphilis in State Has Increased

ATLANTA (AP) — The Public Health Service said Thursday that reported cases of infectious syphilis continued to increase in the United States during the fiscal year ending June 30.

It said Arkansas reported 12.7 cases per 100,000 population in 1965, compared to 10.2 cases in 1964.

The highest areas were District of Columbia, with 69.4 cases per 100,000; Florida with 38.7 and Alabama with 38.6.

Grady Has a Bank That Isn't a Bank

By Wayman Dunlap
Associated Press Writer

GRADY, Ark. (AP) — Grady has a bank that isn't a bank. It's a teller's window—a department of a main bank that is usually located in either another city or another part of town. The window serves to assist members of a bank who cannot get to the main office and it is usually known as a branch office.

On Dec. 20, the First State Bank of Gould opened the state's newest "teller's window" in this small farming community of approximately 700. It became the first bank in the area since 1931.

"We feel the new bank can't do anything but help the citizens," said Jesse R. Rich, 39, Executive Vice President of the First State Bank of Gould.

"The people of Grady will benefit and so will we," Rich said the idea for the branch bank came after two of the bank's directors, Roy Wood and Don Eifling, both of Grady, were approached by local people who questioned the possibility of a branch in their town.

A survey was made to determine the plausibility of a branch of the First State Bank of Gould.

"It looked very favorable," Rich said.

(The main office serves a town just slightly twice the population of Grady and is not two years old itself, although it has grown in deposits to $2.5 million just over a year.)

Prior to the opening, citizens of Grady had a choice of either banking at Gould, or traveling to the next nearest town with a bank, which was usually Pine Bluff or Star City.

Arkansas has 247 banks, not counting teller's windows, but none seemed to be near Grady.

"We submitted the first application for a branch in February of 1965," Rich said, "and received our notification from a FDIC (Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation) on November 10th. Forty days later (Dec. 20) we opened for business."

The teller in the teller's window here is Robert B. McCool, 35, an ex-farmer. Actually, he is listed as the branch manager and is on the board of directors.

Observing the New Year Has Not Always Been the Same, Differs in Various Countries

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

It has been said that we never find the future because it is always a dream and much like the rainbow that can be seen but never quite reached. A philosopher said on this subject, "Some day, when we are old, we may realize that all these years we've been living the future every day of our lives."

At a turning point on the calendar such as the first day of a new year we are all inclined to think of the future and reflect on the past, if only between the parades and the bowl games. But did you know that the New Year celebration was not always on January 1? Prior to 1752 England and her colonies observed the New Year on March 25.

The Hebrews observe a 10-day New Year season at the time of the autumnal equinox. Months of the Moslem calendar start with the new moon and thus move backward through the four seasons, so that the Moslem New Year retrogrades through the entire year in about 33½ years. This is one person who doesn't understand how a Moslem ever dates a letter right or knows how old (or young) he is.

Around the world celebrations vary in welcoming a new year. Since Russia prefers to ignore Christmas, it is New Year's Day when there is a tree with toys and lights and parties there. In Italy the people "clean out the old and begin the new" by standing at a window on the first day of the new year and throwing out old glass, kitchenware and chairs, regardless of passersby.

In Spain when the clock begins to strike midnight on New Year's Eve, each person starts to eat 12 grapes. All must be eaten before the twelfth stroke of the clock to ensure a happy new year. In Iran eggs are exchanged as gifts; India believes that boiling new rice is an appeal for good luck; and the southwestern U. S. usually eats black-eyed peas and hog jowl for the same reason.

Perhaps the biggest New Year's Day celebration is the razzle-dazzle affair carried on in Japan. Everyone takes three days off from work and the merrymaking is culminated with the 108 peals of the temple bells at midnight. The new year in Japan means it is automatically everyone's birthday at the stroke of midnight!

Regardless of who you are or where you live a wish for happiness is the idea conveyed in one form or the other. A recent issue of "Accent on Living," a splendid little magazine that lives up to its name, carried this message which we would like to echo:

May You Have Enough
Happiness to keep you sweet;
Trials to keep you strong;
Sorrow to keep you human;
Compassion to keep you warm;

Hope to keep you happy; Failure to keep you humble;
Success to keep you eager;
Friends to give you comfort;
Faith and courage to banish despair;
Wealth to meet your needs;
Grit to make each day better than the previous one.

Many Beliefs Associated on New Year

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Things will go bad for you all through the new year if you sneeze while getting ready for bed tonight.

That's one of a long list of beliefs that people—some people, anyhow—associate with New Year's.

A Library of Congress researcher found, for example, there are many believers in the "first footer" twist of fate. This means that the first visitor to cross a threshold on New Year's Day brings with him good or bad luck for the whole year.

A dark-haired man, it seems, is the best bet for good luck. A red-haired man is the worst. Some other beliefs: Good luck will be your reward if you place a piece of money on the window sill on New Year's Eve.

If by tonight you don't have a 1966 calendar, you may very well be late for appointments all year long.

You might get a line on the future by dipping into your Bible or hymn book tonight, and taking a chosen-at-random text for your guide through 1966.

Then there's the matter of new year resolutions.

The World Book Encyclopedia traces their background this way: "In ancient Rome, the first day of the year was given over to honoring Janus, the god of gates and doors and beginnings and endings. . . . Janus had two faces, and looked both ahead and backward."

"On the first day of the year the Roman people looked back to what had happened during the past year and thought of what the coming year might bring."

The early English took over many of the Roman new year customs. Later English people followed the custom of cleaning the chimneys on New Year's Day. This was supposed to bring good luck to the household during the coming year. Today we say "cleaning the slate" instead of "cleaning the chimney." This means making resolutions to correct faults and bad habits, and resolving to make the new year better."

The National Geographic Society says that celebrating the new year is as old as mankind.

Texarkana Man Fatally Shot

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — James F. Crow, 33, was fatally shot Thursday in his home with a .22 caliber pistol police said. Mrs. Joyce Elaine Crow, 22, was held in connection with her husband's death.

She was taken into custody at a Texarkana, Tex., hospital where her husband was taken after the shooting. Officers said she signed necessary extradition papers so they could return her to Arkansas.

Gunpowder Plant Strike May End

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — After four days of intensive bargaining, negotiators in a gunpowder plant strike have reached a tentative settlement that the administration hopes will restore some dwindling ammunition supplies for Viet Nam.

The rebuilding of critical gunpowder stocks could resume after the New Year's weekend if the 4,200 strikers at the Olin Mathieson plant in East Alton, Ill., approve the agreement reached here Thursday night.

Bargaining for the month-long strike was switched to Washington Federal Mediation Service. Chief Federal Mediator William E. Simkin said the tentative agreement was communicated to the White House and Pentagon and "everybody in the administration is gratified at this step."

The Illinois plant is the sole manufacturer of a special gunpowder used in some rifle bullets, tracer bullets and 20mm cannon shells which the government said were running low during the strike.

But Pentagon spokesmen emphasized that, up to now, there has been no ammunition shortage in Viet Nam.

The agreement was initiated by the three unions involved Thursday night.

Members of the striking AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists — representing most of the strikers — rejected four earlier tentative contracts, but Simkin said he expected the latest offer to be ratified. The three unions have scheduled votes over the holiday weekend.

The other two unions are the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Western Employees' Trade Council, composed of several bargaining units.

The administration had indicated it would resort to a Taft-Hartley Act injunction to halt the strike for 80 days if the latest contract offer were rejected.

Although the Army announced Thursday it would reactivate its Badger ammunition plant in Earaboo, Wis., it would take six months to begin manufacturing gunpowder there. Reopening of the Wisconsin plant, in mothballs for the past eight years, will go ahead regardless of the outcome of the strike vote, the Pentagon said.

No Charge in Man's Death

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Prosecutor David Whittington of Hot Springs said Thursday that no charge would be filed in the death of Edgar Doyle Hickson, 32.

Hickson was shot Wednesday night in what police said was an attempted robbery of a service station. An employee, George Lambert, 42, told police he fired after Hickson pulled a gun.

Steel Increase Disputed by the Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new business-government dispute over prices greeted the New Year following Bethlehem Steel Corp.'s decision to charge more for some of its products.

President Johnson called for a meeting between company officials and his own council of economic advisers, but there was no immediate word on whether one would occur.

Bethlehem spokesmen weren't available, and Gardner Ackley, chairman of the council, declined all comment.

Earlier, Ackley said on the basis of information available, the Bethlehem action "must be characterized as inflationary and not in the public interest."

Johnson, spending the holidays at his Texas ranch, asserted: "This is certainly no time for unwarranted price increases which can lead to inflation."

Twice during 1965 the Johnson administration forced major industries — aluminum and copper — to rescind announced price hikes.

In 1962, President John F. Kennedy blocked an across-the-board price increase by most of the steel industry. Those attempted raises were attributed to the steel industry. Those attempted raises were attributed to labor costs. Bethlehem made no such statement in its announcement Friday.

The Bethlehem boost amounts to $5 a ton on structural steel shapes and piling, the basic frameworks for big buildings, bridges, highways and some heavy equipment. These products represent 7 per cent of the total steel market.

Edward D. Bickford, Bethlehem's vice president for sales, said the increases were being made "in the light of growing industry acceptance and demand for more economical and lightweight, high strength structural steels and the substantially increased mill time required to produce them on a tonnage basis."

He added: "Even with the base structure revision, the cost of equivalent steel framing for structures will be less than five years ago."

Bethlehem said it had no plans to raise other prices.

At the same time, it said it was reducing prices on jumbo sections of steel used in unusually large structures.

It couldn't be determined whether other steel companies would follow the Bethlehem lead.

Armco Steel Corp. said it was caught by surprise. Other companies replied they were studying the situation.

The announcement by Bethlehem, the nation's No. 2 steel producer, came in mid-morning, and five hours later Ackley released a special statement.

He said "while it is possible that Bethlehem might have information not available to the government which would justify this increase, such information has not been presented to us or to the public."

Arkansas Junior Miss Is Named

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Donna Davidson of Little Rock was named Arkansas Junior Miss here Thursday night, and will represent the state in national Junior Miss competition.

Margo Gibson of Conway was first runner-up. Others, in order of finish, were Jo Ella Todd of Dell, Dianne Rice of Watson and Christmas Carroll of El Dorado.

Phoenix Cut in Half by Flooded River

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A dry desert river that went on a bender New Year's Eve subsided slowly today after its floodwaters had crushed a new interstate freeway and cut a city in half.

The raging Salt River, flooded by the emergency release of water from brimful reservoirs, raced through central Arizona at a rate unseen in this century.

Nearly 8,000 persons whose homes had been threatened were herded into churches, school buildings and National Guard armories. By late Friday night, all but about 1,700 were back home.

Major natural gas lines ruptured at two places in the river, and pleas went out to homeowners throughout the Salt River Valley to use gas sparingly.

The estimates of damage began at $1.2 million, mostly to private property.

Power to a wide area of northeast Phoenix was cut off for two hours when water hit six substations of the Salt River Project.

The shock to the 750,000 people in the Phoenix area, unused to seeing water in any river, was followed by wild curiosity as they raced to see it.

Then, as the oily brown waters swept on, a half-mile wide in places, destruction came.

Riverbed homes by the dozens were flooded. A 100-foot section of the new Interstate 10 freeway crumbled and fell into the water, leaving only two undamaged eastbound lanes. The highway suffered an estimated $350,000 damage.

The water washed across dozens of streets and highways, halting travel throughout the day on all but two north-south halting travel throughout the day on all but two north-south thoroughfares. Occasionally, it was impossible to use those either.

Busy holiday transcontinental traffic was slowed to a crawl.

The floodwaters crested and slowly receded about 20 hours after spillways were opened from the six reservoirs of the Salt River chain in the mountains northeast of Phoenix. The storage stood at record levels following long rains and above-normal snowmelt.

Spokesmen for the Salt River Project said about 75,000 cubic feet per second were going into the watershed storage system — and about that much was still being released in an effort to avoid a much greater flood.

In extreme eastern Arizona, the swollen Gila River flooded its banks in the Safford-Clifton area for the second time in two weeks.

The Gila, fed by heavy runoff from New Mexico, was nearly a mile wide. But no evacuation was reported.

Newsman Might Write Own Law

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state attorney general's office has given the Arkansas press a chance to write a law on the rights of newsmen to information at meetings of public bodies.

Richard B. Adkisson, chief assistant attorney general, said the present law on the matter is poorly drawn. He said the act requires meetings of state boards and commissions to be open to the press except when "privileged" matters are being discussed. Such matters include personnel situations.

But otherwise, Adkisson said, the term "privileged" is left unexplained, and is almost impossible to define from a legal standpoint.

The Arkansas Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, a professional journalism fraternity, has picked Richard Adkisson of the Arkansas Gazette to head a committee to propose a law.

Adkisson said the committee will consider a "model" law drawn by the national headquarters of Sigma Delta Chi, as well as other alternatives, and then ask the Legislative Council to study the situation.

Our old friend "Hard Luck Joe" ruffled the second spade and promptly laid down his ace of clubs. Then he entered dummy with a diamond and finessed successfully against East's queen of clubs. Unfortunately for Joe, West showed out and Joe had to go down one trick. "My usual hard luck," groaned Joe. "I play perfectly and still can't win a rubber."

If you readers remember our old friend, he does have plenty of hard luck but invariably he is responsible for it. Joe should have made the hand by the simple expedient of going to dummy at trick two and leading the eight of clubs for a first-round finesse. This play would have cost him the contract if West held the singleton queen but it was still the correct play.

Do you see why? Joe's play would have succeeded against the singleton queen in the West hand and the correct play would have lost. On the other hand, Joe's play failed against the singleton five-spot in the West hand and would also have failed against the singleton seven, four or deuce while the correct play would succeed in each of these four situations.

If dummy had happened to hold a third club and Joe only five, the play of the ace on the first round would have been correct. The reason for this is that Joe would still have been able to handle four trumps to the queen in the East hand because he would have still had two of the trumps in dummy, but with the actual six-two holding he couldn't afford to try for that singleton queen.

to do comedy too "but it's hard to find the right vein that would go down in a pub without disgracing me."

Hardly anyone seems offended at the vicar raising money for the church in saloons. "One or two have thought it rather a pity I do this kind of thing, but they've made no real objection," Father knight said. "And the Bishop of London asked me about it and seemed almost encouraging."

The vicar says he avoids trying to put a church message over in the pubs. "But people sometimes start talking quite seriously while I'm waiting my turn to sing. Have you ever tried carrying on a theological discussion within a few feet of an amplified pop band? It's quite hard going."

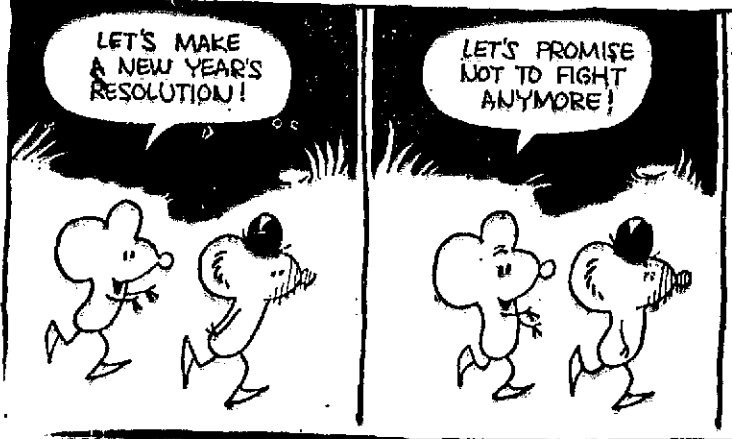

When not busy with his parish or singing in the pubs, Father Knight has plenty of other business. He is chaplain to the National Theater - Old Vic and Sadlers Wells Opera House - chaplain to the local hospital, the army cadets and the Boy Scouts.

But only the singing brings in money. Making of a ton of charcoal takes 2.2 cords of hardwood, preferable oak, beech, birch, hickory or maple.

Warm Weather Brings Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The warm springtime weather Arkansas has been experiencing for the last few days is expected to continue, the U. S. Weather Bureau says, but a weak cold front moving eastward from Kansas is expected to drop temperatures slightly. Some rain is expected to accompany the front, but is forecast to end by Sunday with cooler weather prevailing. Temperatures over the state Thursday were pleasant and generally in the mid 60s to mid 70s. Fort Smith recorded a high of 75. Southwest Ark. temperatures were in the low 60s and high 60s, with the state low of 58 recorded at Arkadelphia and Newport.

Lows tonight are forecast to be in the mid 50s or low 60s. Forecast for Saturday slightly cooler weather with high temperatures in the mid 60s and a possibility of light showers.

6 Months Tax Take Is $111 Millions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LITTLE ROCK (AP) - The state Revenue Department said Thursday that it had collected $111,504,963 during the first half of the fiscal year, an increase of $16,457,138 over the same six-month period last year.

Part of the higher collection resulted from increased taxes passed by the 1965 Legislature. Gasoline tax collections increased almost $6 million on a one-cent hike; and cigarette taxes, up two cents per pack, brought about $1.6 million more during the period.

The department's regular monthly report showed revenues for December totaled $15,653,727, an increase of $1,217,127 over last December.

the son of the movie marshal, Will Kane, memorably played by Gary Cooper.

There are neither dramatic anthologies—each show a self-contained story without continuing heroes—nor variety shows in the list of candidates. However, it is expected that Garry Moore will be returning to television on a regular basis in some variety-type format.

According to my opaque crystal ball, the next 12 months of television will be practically indistinguishable from the past 12. If that makes a happy New Year—well, enjoy it.

TIME RUNNING OUT!

New Year's Eve and four minutes 'til midnight. It is time to total your failures, to calculate your successes, and to make bonafide resolutions. Did this year bring a spiritual surplus for you? Do you have a clearer view of destiny? Do you know more of the meaning and purpose of life? Have you had time for God? If not, it will be a terrible day, when God has no time for you. As the New Year dawns, we know God is in front. He will be in all the tomorrows. Happy New Year!
